NHS Dorset CCG and the Wessex Cardiovascular Strategic Network are pleased to support this collaborative event. The event has been designed to raise awareness of AKI and promote best practice in community hospitals in the prevention, early detection and care of patients in Dorset.

Acute Kidney Injury (AKI), previously known as acute renal failure, is a sudden loss of kidney function. It is a common and preventable condition. AKI affects patients in every clinical speciality in both primary and secondary care settings. It is a nationally important patient safety issue and is strongly associated with mortality, increased lengths of stay, chronic morbidity and increased healthcare costs.
